That Manhattan's population should spreading out into cheaper land is past all reason, according to the experts. People are crowded together here more closely than are the residents of any other American city. Few cities i the entire world can equal the population density of New York. No highly civilized people have existed under such conditions. To visitors from even London and Paris the New York congestion is marvelous-almost unbelievable Manhattan's Big Jam.

Room For All Outside.

That those who want to move can escape the congestion of old Manhattan, with its high living costs and other disagreeable features, is evident, because the new subways of 1898 are opening thousands of acres for homebuilders. In the Greater Cityl with its New Jersey. Westchester. Nassau and Suffolk suburbs, are over 220 000 acres. The population of nearly 4,000,000 covers 120,000 acres for the immediate leaving 70,000 acres for the immediate uses of home-seekers in the enlarged mapid transit zone.

If the new subways could spread the 6,000,000 persons in the metropolitan district evenly over the 200,000 available acres there would be an average of thirty to the acre. And the increase of homeise there would add 1 1-2 persons each year to the acre. In ten years there would be only forty-live persons as an average to each acre.

VOMAN'S ENDLESS WORK, Early and late, morning, noon and night, never ceasing her labors, always worrying because something is left un no one to help. Is this woman working too Mrs. John H. Leuz, 48 Springfield Ave., Newark, N.J., says:

"When I began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I was terribly run down. My baby had been very sick, and I was nursing him day and night. I got so worried I couldn't eat nor sleep. When I tried to eat my heart seemed to come up in a lum; in my throat and choke me, and I would leave everything untasted. Any little noise would make me jump, and I lost all my color and got so thin I thought I would break down myself. That was when I decided to take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and I am thankful to say it helped me wonderfully. It enabled me to bear the terrible strain of mybaby's sickness, and kept me from breaking down in spite of all I had to stand. My appetite and color returned and I began to gain fiesh. I recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to all women run down through overwork, sickness, or any cause, and I give this letter in the hope that other mothers who are worrying over their sick children and trying to do their work, may know how to keep up the health under such trying circumstances."
